

Plan Giving Smylie Control of Highway Defeated by Solons

The Idaho senate yesterday battered down 30 to 11 a bill which would have permitted the governor to fire members of the highway board at his pleasure. Supporters of the defeated bill said the vote apparently meant there would be no change in Idaho's highway administration system by this session of the legislature. Present law specifies that any of the three board members may be dismissed by the governor only for cause. Another bill, the transportation bill, is still in the senate.

House Handed Gross
Income Tax Measure

R. Washington, said it was "dead."

He said the committee had decided to put only one highway bond bill before the senate, and that bill would be one which was defeated yesterday.

BOISE, March 1 (AP)—The house revenue and taxation committee proposed a bill yesterday which would place a tax of one per cent on the gross income of over $100,000 of most Idaho wage earners. Rep. Perry Swisher, R., Bannock, committee chairman, said if the bill is adopted two companion measures will be introduced. One would do away completely

The committee also introduced a severance tax on lumber and phosphate which Swisher said would bring in an additional two million dollars per year. The proposed gross income tax

Sen. Ernest Gaffney, D., Benewah, threatened it was "unfair to conduct the board because it is a board."

"Before 1851 (when the present Idaho was part of the Oregon territory), we've had some idea of which direction was going in highway surveys, construction and maintenance," he said.

"In general, however, he said it would bring tax relief to wage earners.

"The biggest gain to the state, Swisher said, would be in payments from firms which import into Idaho goods from other states.

"Any department responsible for spending $1 million dollars should not be in a position where it can be so automatic without being responsible to anyone," he said.

Introduced early in the session by Sen. Vernon Daniel, R., Fayette, the bill would require that any department or agency that receives more than $1 million in federal funds must submit a budget request to the legislature.

Water Studies

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—More money to finance water studies

That was the plea yesterday for the West and less money for federal aid to the states.

That was the plea yesterday at D. Brownfield, Deming, N. M., chairman of the National Advisory Council on the Economy, as he presided at the 17th annual council meeting.

He pointed out that at least four heavily-populated areas in the state already are facing serious economic problems because of the overall revival of the present tax structure in preference to the mul-under-40 age bracket because it accounts for 20 percent of the state's income tax base.

While several western congressmen looked on, Brownfield said: "It seems to me congress ought to set up a little of the money that is going to foreign nations to provide for a survey of the possibility of aking water from the Great Lakes, on the Mississippi or the Missouri rivers to the south.

He said the Great Lakes might not represent a possible source in view of an international agreement with Canada which provides that the lake's water level cannot be reduced.

Earlier, Asst. Interior Secretary Hatfield Chislen, Loveland, Colo., presented the interior department's position to the board. Chislen said the intent to permit cattle grazing on the public lands in the area was "a very serious situation."

Earlier, Police Chief Howard Gullett urged parents of teen-agers to take more interest in their children's activities. He said the present situation similar to that confronting police Wednesday night.

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower's Middle East tour came under attack in the senate today from Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R. Wis., and Estes Kefauver, D. Tenn.

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—Portland, Ore., pinball operator today flatly denied testimony that he paid $100,000 in a west coast gambler house to buy his way into the union and break its pinball monopoly.

Stassen Seeks Top U. S. Job; Reports Claim

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The word on Harold G. Stassen is that he is making a serious study of the Republican presidential nomination although his status in the Washington scene is just now a matter of speculation.

Some usually well-informed persons around town have written Stassen about the possibility of his being elected. They are confident that he should be elected to the job as special assistant to President Eisenhower.

The hardest fact on that subject is that Stassen's consideration is being given now to placing Stassen and his activities as the president's direct representative in the United States.

Stassen's political ambitions are also being considered by the Republican party. Stassen plans to seek election next year as governor of Pennsylvania. It is in light of this that Stassen's candidacy for the Republican nomination is being considered by the party.

Principal Explains Work for Schools

BUNH, March 1.—Lucille Huston, principal of the P. H. Bush school, spoke to members of the Kiwanis club about school training from the pre-school age through the first and second grades Wednesday night at the R. and R. cafe.

Mrs. Huston told of some children being immature when they start school, but mentioned how quickly they overcome it. She said schools have three groups of children—immature, normal and above normal.

"Practical" Aides for Range Work Proposed by Stockmen

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The college degree has been so glorified that it's unusual now to run into a group of men who contend that even in this technical age there's a lot that can't be learned in books.

This group—cattle and sheep men from the level who are here as members of a national advisory group on land management—were in the city today to discuss the "practical" aides for range work proposed by stockmen.

Under some conditions, a crew can out-think a city bred college man every time.

The stockmen's main quarrel is with a civil service regulation that requires a college degree for those going into land management and the forest service.

They feel a far more important requirement, especially for anyone who wants to be a range manager, is a college degree in range management.

Pilot Just Watches While New Electronic Gadget Lands Jet

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 1.—The pilot sat with hands on knees, looking idly out of a window, while his navy jet fighter—aided down an electronic pathway and landed itself.

Only as the aircraft began rolling toward a stop did Dan Veronica, test pilot for the Bell Aircraft corporation, put his hands back on the control stick he had abandoned two miles back.

Veronica didn't much to it," he commented to the newsmen who rode with him in the first public demonstration of the fully-automatic landing system developed for the navy. It is for eventual use aboard aircraft carriers and, still later, by commercial airlines.

It did, indeed, look easy. But an intricate combination of radar, radio and an electronic brain, back on the ground, was flying the Douglas F4D to its perfect landing.

A few minutes earlier, the fighter had screamed into the air from Naval Air Station, and a few minutes later it was "two miles out."

A tell-tale light flashed on to show that the automatic system was taking over control. Veronica seemed to be in the air.

Electrical Wiring Is Granger Topic

RICHFIELD, March 1.—Electrical wiring of the farm home was the topic Wednesday night of a talk by William Perry, Twin Falls, Idaho Power company representative, at the meeting of the Richfield Grange.

Mrs. Louie Bae, lecturer, introduced the speaker and announced that the speaker will discuss the electrical wiring of the farm home.

Transportation of blood donors to Shoshone on March 14 will be provided by Grange members if donors contact Warren Blumgren, Grange master.

Date for the open house has been changed from March 13 to March 27. Cooked food sale will be held March 3.

Officers Picked by Rod, Custom Club

Dick Carter was elected president of the Rebel Rod and Custom club Tuesday night.

Joe New was named vice president; Clifford Sparks, secretary; Gary Sharp, treasurer; Gary Groves, reporter; and Dave Dykstra, chaplain.

Carter noted the club is a separate organization and should not be confused with the Rod Riders.

Court Backs Judge on End Of Race Ban

By United Press
The U. S. Fifth circuit court of appeals today upheld a lower court ruling which ordered New Orleans public schools desegregated. The appeals court, backed up by Federal judges, rejected a plea by the state to delay desegregation until a new law is passed. The new law has not been passed yet, but the court said it should be done with all deliberate speed.

When Judge Wright ruled last year, his decision was interpreted as overruling Louisiana's public school segregation laws. But since the ruling, the state legislature has passed new laws designed to delay desegregation. The new laws have not been challenged in court.

The decision on which the appeals court ruled today involved a suit by a Negro pupil, Earl Benjamin, and others against the Orleans Parish school board.

U.N. Plagued By Ghosts of Dead League

By United Press
WASHINGTON, March 16.—The ghost of the League of Nations is haunting the United Nations these days.

President Eisenhower and other world leaders are being reminded by the League's ghost, yet, but they are watching it with open eyes.

It is easy to recall the League of Nations—fellowship—on Manchuria, Ethiopia, disarmament—and other key issues of the 1920's and 1930's. In some ways the League's inability to handle those issues appears to parallel the situation of the United Nations on Hungary, Kashmir, disarmament, the Middle East and other current issues.

Diplomats who work with U. N. affairs say by day acknowledge that the League's ghost is haunting them at a crossroads. The League's failure can mean new strength or future weakness. But the League's death means the same thing is in store for the United Nations. They don't believe the "ghosts" are accurate.

The answer to the U. N.'s future, experts believe, lies in large part with the United States. The country was a member of the League.

"There is always the dangerous possibility that the American people will say of the U. N.—to hell with it," according to one diplomat. "If the United States loses this position the U. N. is dead. The U. S. however, is in the world organization this time."

Influence Not Tried, Asserts Head of Firm

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 1.—The president of the Arizona Public Service company said today his firm, and five other Rocky Mountain utility companies, were not trying to "brainwash" the interior electorate, but rather to "educate" it.

Walter Lucking, whose company, along with five others was accused by house investigators today of trying to "brainwash" the interior electorate, said in an interview with the federal grand jury here today:

"We presented to the secretary of the interior, in 1935, a booklet setting forth our views, concerning the government's power policy. Our belief now is no different than at the time of the hearing. The information presented with regard to public power policies is factual and is presented openly."

From the information available in the report of the house government operations subcommittee, it seems that a very narrow view of the facts presented at the hearing was the basis for the American people.

"We feel that our company has the right, as well as the obligation to present to any agency of government facts on an issue which affects the general public interest, and we felt that this before the subcommittee last summer. We believe we have the duty as well as the right to speak out, in favor of those things in which we honestly and sincerely believe."

Wally Wallaroo Ends up Losing In Free-for-All

DALLAS, Tex., March 1.—A four-foot wallaroo hopping merrily through suburban Dallas yesterday, and a crowd of spectators, ended up in a hospital after a fall from a tree.

Wally the wallaroo, a cousin to the kangaroo, jumped a workman yesterday on a tree limb which he was using to cut a limb from a tree. He was caught in the fork of the tree, and he was hanging there for some time before he was rescued.

He was carried in the parking lot of an apartment house by two men, and he was taken to a hospital where he was treated for his injuries.

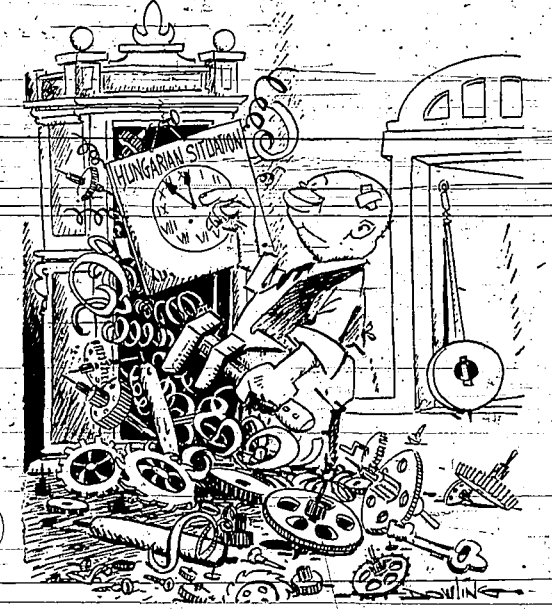

Wally was dragged him around the shed when two assistants arrived in a pickup truck and subdued the errant wallaroo.

Wally was placed back in his cage, and the combats was injured.

He has the national spotlight three years ago when he was, in person, pianist-winner of the Twentieth National Young Artist auditions for the National Federation of Music Clubs.

He also won international honors in two years of study abroad.

In New York's Town hall on April 11, 1933, Cass was selected for the federation's honor. A second league followed hard on the heels of the first. He was awarded a Pulitzer scholarship for study abroad.

The Pulitzer scholarship was renewed for a second year and he spent the season at the Ecole Normale de Musique in Paris.

While in Europe, he filled many professional engagements including recitals in such cities as Bordeaux, Orleans, Bourges, Cannes and Ploerres. In the summer of 1935, he returned home to open his first nationwide concert tour. In July he appeared as soloist with Chautauque Symphony orchestra under Walter Hendl and a month later with the Transylvania orchestra at the Brevard festival.

Born in Greenville on May 3, 1903, Cass received his early musical training at home, later studied privately with Mrs. Lawrence Bentz and, as a scholarship student at Furman university in Greenville, with Louis Paton Almond and Wendell Kerney.

After winning the National Federation of Music Clubs auditions in New York in the spring of 1933, he returned to Burley to take his final examinations for his bachelor of arts degree, summa cum laude.

He was selected for the afternoon Sydney Sullivan award by the New York Southern society in recognition of high aspirations and noble humanitarian qualities of character.

The artist's early engagements include "1935 appearance with the Greenville Symphony" and "1936 Carolina symphony, the Oak Ridge symphony and twice the Transylvania orchestra at the Brevard festival."

He Said "Yes" On Candidacy One Year Ago

WASHINGTON, March 1 (U-P)—President Eisenhower made his decision a year ago today. He said "yes" by saying "yes" to the question of whether he would run for a second term. Actually it was on Feb. 20, 1956. It was less than a year ago that he made his decision. He said "yes" to the question of whether he would run for a second term.

The decision that day at the President's jammed, non-conference was a decision that he would not announce in advance. He would close his long-awaited decision, but there had been pretty good indications he was ready.

For months the speculation had been mounting—ever since he suffered a heart attack on Sept. 24, 1955. At first it had been hard to find anyone who wasn't convinced the attack had ruled out another term for Eisenhower. Republican leaders, however, were virtually unanimous in the idea of an alternate candidate, were in near despair at word of the President's illness.

But in the succeeding weeks on favorable medical report after another, changed his opinion. Eisenhower himself kept his own counsel, saying not much more than that when he made up his mind to tell the public. His backers took hope. At least he wasn't saying he wouldn't run again.

Then on Feb. 14 last year Eisenhower's doctors said after another physical examination that they had found him fit to serve another five to 10 years in a job like the president's.

Eisenhower had said the would base his decision more on how he felt than on what the doctors said about his condition. But that optimistic medical report wiped out much of the remaining doubt about which way he would decide.

That was the situation when Eisenhower faced 11 tense reporters a year ago.

Anti-Trading Stamp Drives for 20
States Stir up Housewives, Grocers

By United Press
Legislation to curb or regulate the trading stamp business is pending in 20 states, a survey showed today. In several states, the proposed anti-stamp laws stirred up equibales involving lawmakers, grocers and housewives.

The state-by-state check, conducted by United Press, turned up several proposals to make the stamps redeemable in cash as well as merchandise.

Other bills would outlaw the stamps completely, require the companies issuing them to take out a license or tax the merchants handling them.

States in which anti-stamp legislation is pending include Arkansas, California, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee and West Virginia.

It appeared doubtful that the measures would pass in many of the states. In Iowa, a bill to put a 10 per cent tax on gross receipts of trading stamp companies was killed this week by the manufacturing and commerce committee of the state senate.

In Tennessee, a bill aimed at putting an end to the stamp trade had passed both houses and had been sent to the governor. The bill doubled the privilege levy on stamp companies and requires a 2 per cent gross receipts tax from merchants using the stamps.

If the governor lets the bill become law, the stamp companies said they would test its constitutionality in the courts.

Much of the anti-stamp activity was in "the South." Stamp-selling housewives, encouraged by merchants, sent a flood of letters to the South Carolina legislature to protest a series of bills, one of which would outlaw stamps altogether.

Convicts Are Moved From Utah Prison

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah, March 1 (U-P)—Ten Utah convicts were "temporarily" released today after 27 inmates, described as "trouble-makers" were removed from contact with other convicts.

The action was ordered by Warden Maxwell Graham after Utah prison officials felt "something was building up." Graham had acknowledged "day" earlier that guards were on the alert for any indication of a disturbance.

The big prison housing a few more than 600 inmates, was swept by a 12-hour riot early in February. Graham said 10 inmates have been placed in individual cells in the prison's maximum security wing and 19 have been transferred to the Salt Lake county jail, where they are held in individual jails.

In addition, 10 other prisoners, against whom complaints have been filed as a result of the riot, are being held in the county jail. The five are charged with assault, accused of killing guard M. L. Coleman.

Prison officials said that Friday conditions "definitely" were improved following the transfer. "There isn't so much tension," he said. "Everything is more quiet."

We really felt there was a possibility of more trouble. There was a kind of feeling in the air. But things are much better this morning."

VISITING UNCLE
KING HILL, March 1 (U-P)—Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Foster are visiting his uncle, William Bundy, in Ouldsen.

Minnesota Retail Grocers association, said the "sharp-edged" sticking eye lamping is skin to the trading stamps which have attached themselves to small retailers.

In Massachusetts, public hearings are scheduled next month on two bills calling for studies of the effects stamps have had on the general public.

In several states in which no legislation is pending, unsuccessful attempts were made in previous years to curb the stamp trade.

The Nebraska supreme court ruled several years ago that any attempt to regulate or tax the stamp trade would be unconstitutional.

In Louisiana, a bill introduced last year by state Rep. Ben Lehoucq was withdrawn. Lehoucq said housewives "desecrated on me with mops, brooms and the kitchen sink."

Report for Probe
WASHINGTON, March 1 (U-P)—Sen. A. S. (Mike) McNamara said today he has asked the securities and exchange commission for a full report on its investigation of the Crowell-Oller Publishing company.

The Oklahoma Democrat said he was particularly interested in the fact that discharged employees of the company's now-defunct Oller and the Women's Home Companion magazine are trying to collect 1 million dollars in severance pay.

The SEC tentatively ended its public inquiry yesterday into the controversial issuing by the company of 4 million dollars in securities during 1955-56. The lengthy hearings brought out that former presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson and Thomas E. Dewey bought securities of the firm.

WASHINGTON, March 1 (U-P)—White House officials said today President Eisenhower has received a letter from a 17-year-old girl who doesn't want her 18-year-old sister, Elvis Presley, drafted into the army.

In response to inquiries, Murray Snyder, assistant press secretary, said that secret service agents investigated "as a matter of policy" the girl's letter. He said the girl, who is named "Priscilla," was "under supervision of Montana court authorities," said Lewiston police before the slayings.

Teacher Uses Iron Lung for College Work

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1 (AP)—An iron lung, not a blackboard, is the most important prop used by Prof. Robert Stewart to teach child psychology at San Francisco State.

The 46-year-old professor does not teach without it. He's a victim of polio.

Stewart, a frail 100 pounds, lectures twice weekly at the college and holds two other large seminars at his home in Berkeley.

At home, he teaches flat on his back enclosed in a steel chamber, giving his students like a giant child, English schoolmaster in a mirror over his head.

In the lecture hall in San Francisco, he wears a portable chest abdominal respirator when speaking to the class. Electrically powered, the "lung" pulls air out of the cylinder causing his chest to swell and making his breathing easier.

Dr. Stewart has helped in his teaching from his "partner," Arthur D. Workman, who adds his lectures on abnormal behavior to the classes on psychology given by this two-man team.

At home, the seminars are informal and the students gather around the iron lung and argue the oedipus complex and the super ego.

Youth Morals Are Problem, Group Claims

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—High school principals in all parts of the nation regard the moral behavior of teen-age youths as one of their most urgent problems, a United Press poll disclosed today.

But principals who participated in the poll had a wide variety of ideas on how ethical an disciplinary values can be taught effectively in public schools.

They were sharply divided on what role religion should play. Some strongly favored non-sectarian religious observations and objective teaching about religion as part of the school program. Others contended that religion must be excluded entirely from public school efforts to develop high moral character in students.

The poll was conducted among 40 principals selected at random among delegates to this week's annual convention of the National Association of Secondary School Principals. Every section of the nation was represented among the respondents.

The first question was whether public high schools should make a "special effort to teach moral and spiritual values."

Twenty-six principals rated this task "important." Thirteen chose the term, "desirable." Only one said it is "unnecessary."

Religious observances of some type were listed by 18 principals as an integral part of the moral guidance activities of their schools.

Another widespread approach is to teach moral values in the context of regular curriculum courses, especially history, literature, social studies and psychology. About half of the principals listed this as their most effective device.

The question which evoked the widest range of views and the most comments was: "What part, if any, should non-sectarian teaching about religion play in a public school program of moral and ethical concepts?"

Insofar as the individual replies could be categorized, eight principals assigned an important role to religious teaching, 10 a small to moderate role, six ruled it out altogether, and the remaining 14 either declined to answer or lined up with the principal who confessed, "I honestly don't know."
